

MOTHER'S DAY

BOOK ACTIVITY

By Katie Roltgen

ABOUT THIS RESOURCE

This resource includes four versions of the same book: One written for "Mom", one written for "Aunt", one written for "Grandma", and one addressed to "You", which can be created for any special person in that student's life. Choose the version that is appropriate for each of your students' individual needs!

Preparation: Print the version(s) of the book that you need. Copy collated and stapled in the upper left-hand corner. If you desire, you could copy the front cover onto colored paper.

How to Use: I've found that it works best to begin working on this book as a whole group, and then let students work independently. I sit at my back table and have students come see me when they're done with a page so I can conference with them and read the next page's prompt. If you have students who struggle with writing or working independently, have them sit at the table with you.

I've also included versions of the books with Mother's Day references removed. These can be found starting on page 42.

PROMPTS AND OTHER INFO

1. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) like(s) to eat – Finish the sentence with her favorite food(s) or meal.
2. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) like(s) to play – Finish the sentence with a game or activity she likes to play.
3. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) like(s) to watch – Finish the sentence with a TV show or movie she likes to watch.
4. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) like(s) to go – Finish the sentence with a place she likes to go, such as "the mall", "Target", "the park", etc.
5. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) and I like to – The student will finish the sentence with something the student and the mom/aunt/grandma/special person like to do together.
6. My (mom/aunt/grandma/You) is/are special because – Finish the sentence with a reason why she is special.
7. The student will draw a picture of himself or herself with their mom/aunt/grandma/special person.
8. The student will draw flowers for his/her mom/aunt/grandma/special person.
